RECIPROCITY UNDER DEBATE IN U. S. SENATE

BODY READY TO DISCUSS

CANADIAN RECIPROCITY

MEASURE AND GET

READY FOR VOTE.

BAILY ATTACKS BILL

Republicans Claim To Be Ready To

Vote For Lower Duties and

Perhaps Entire Free

Let Bill.

Washington, June 20. — The senate has under consideration the Canadian reciprocity treaty.

Senator Root requested that the Root amendment be passed over in order that it might be debated. Mr. Root announced that he would address the senate on the matter Wednesday.

Objection was made to passing the amendment by Senator Williams of Mississippi, who later withdrew it. Then a debate ensued over the necessity of expediting the consideration of the bill. Senator Penrose complained because senators were not ready to discuss it, whereupon Senator Bailey declared those senators who opposed the bill were waiting for those who favored it to speak.

He said that if Senator Penrose would say that none of the Republicans or Democrats favorable to the bill were prepared to defend it, then its opponents would take up the debate and proceed. The result was a colloquial debate on the merits of the general question, during which Senator Bailey held the floor most of the time and vigorously attacked the bill.

The debate was confined mostly to the Democratic side. In the course of the debate Senator Bailey called on the Republicans who opposed the treaty to say how many votes could be supplied from that side in favor of an amendment to Canadian reciprocity that would carry the free list bill, the woolen bill and other tariff measures that have passed the house. Senators Crawford, Dixon and Brown offered to vote for reduction in duties if given the chance.

Senator Bailey announced that he would offer an amendment to the bill and would give the Republicans a chance to go on record.
